They act as a third pair of eyes and ears to ensure necessary activities are brought forward and acted upon. They may play a role in communication between the various subcommittees and maintain a working contact list for all those involved. IV. Budgets and Money Management

The Recovery by the Sea event is typically planned to generate funds to provide needed services to CBANA, TBRNA, and down to NAWS. All revenues generated are earmarked as NA funds. The Eleventh Concept states “NA funds are to be used to further our primary purpose, and must be maintained responsibly”. The first safeguard in protecting NA funds is the careful consideration of trusted servants tasked with managing those funds. Each committee member or volunteer has a shared responsibility to work together using agreed guidelines approved by the ASC. Guidelines are used to help safeguard NA funds and protect member integrity. Any deviation from this policy and procedure must be agreed upon by the RBS Planning Committee and brought forward to the ASC for approval.

A. Creating and maintaining budgets for RBS

- Information for establishing budgets can be gathered from the archive of previous RBS events. Members holding past similar positions provide valuable experience when drafting budgets. Budgets created must be truthful and factual to provide a realistic picture of income and expenses which may be incurred during the course of RBS planning.
- All of the subcommittee budgets should be compiled into a single budget. This budget should be perpetually updated and maintained for the duration of planning the event, typically by the RBS Facilitator or Co-Facilitator.

- The compiled budget should be evaluated by the RBS Planning Committee to ensure that all projections are accurate, understood, and the final financial goal of the event is most likely to be achieved. Ultimately the simple NA message takes priority over the money. (Bill H.) Providing a simple and clear NA message while using budgeted money in a responsible manner provides an atmosphere of trust and unity among our members.
- The budget should be easily understood by members and available during the RBS Planning Committee meetings and the monthly ASC meetings.
- Core and subcommittee leadership should work in cooperation to ensure that all income and expenses are accurately recorded. Variances to the budget should be discussed by the planning committee to determine if any changes are required to meet the financial goals of the event.
- All budgets, notes, and receipts should be archived for future event planning.

1. Registration Budget

Projecting attendance for the RBS is challenging, particularly if weather is an issue. A reasonable projection of participation adopted by other NA events is a figure between forty (40%) and sixty (60%) above the pre-registrations. This is dependent on the efficiency of the CBANA fellowship to communicate the RBS event.

2. Merchandise Budget

Projecting merchandise budget is a difficult task. The prediction of income received following purchases of merchandise will remain unknown. Previous archives of items purchased and revenues generated should be considered as useful information for possible outcomes.

3. Event Baseline Budget

Projecting baselines for large ticket items should be kept in consideration throughout the planning process. Time must be allowed for funds to regenerate and pay down those large ticket items. Items such as sanitary needs, generators, trash pickup should be considered. Some services may be provided by the CBANA fellowship, however, these items are provided out of gratitude.

4. Hospitality Budget

Basic refreshment and supplies for the event will be provided out of the RBS budget. Replenishment of those supplies will primarily be provided through donations. It is important for regular pickup of monies collected to be turned over to core members.

B. Managing RBS checking accounts

- The bank checking account should have 3 signatures approved to sign off on the account for the event. It is suggested that authorized trusted servants be the RBS Facilitator, Co-Facilitator, and the CBANA ASC Treasurer. This will allow for business to occur in the time(s) when an authorized trusted servant is not available. All checks written will require 2 authorized signatures to be recorded for a transaction to occur.
- In the event that a check is made payable to a core member or the ASC Treasurer on the RBS bank account – the other 2 approved trusted servants must sign off to complete the transaction.
- The Co-Facilitator is responsible for maintaining possession of all check transactions. All bank account statements should go directly to the Facilitator. All RBS Planning Committee members should review transactions recorded to ensure accuracy.
- It is important that checks ordered have a means for documenting the purpose of the checks written and 2 signature lines.

- All checks written must have the recipient or business name recorded in the “Pay to the Order of” field of the check. All checks must have the dollar amount written on the check prior to removal from the ledger. No blank information on the checks written is allowed. This is to help safeguard funds. Information should be recorded on the check and checkbook ledger. All transactions should be promptly recorded into the budget.

C. Free Form Monies

Free form monies would include cash, checks, and electronic credits that are outstanding and have not been deposited into the RBS bank account.

- All free form monies shall be deposited within 72 hours of collection. These transactions would include activities that are used to raise funds for the RBS event. This includes, but is not limited to, t-shirt sales, pre-registration, raffle type events, food sales, 7th Tradition donations, or member donations.
- All subcommittee activities that generate free form monies in excess of $100 should be redeposited into the RBS bank account for documentation purposes. Funds may be redistributed as a payout to the subcommittee using the RBS bank account after approval by the RBS Planning Committee. All free form monies should be counted by 2 approved members following policies established for accuracy. Accuracy in both the subcommittee’s ledgers and the RBS bank account should be maintained. Entry dates, amounts, and descriptions should match.
- All subcommittee activities that generate free form monies of $100 or less may be kept in safe guard for approved ear marked expenses. These expenses should be approved by the subcommittee members. Such funds should be counted by 2 approved members following policies established and documented in the subcommittee budget ledger.
- All event tickets, badges, and pre-packaged material (registration packages) should be considered as free form monies (cash), and should require the application of all required cash handling procedures.
- Any unused or unclaimed tickets, badges, or pre-packaged materials should be retained for the post-event audit. Registrants that failed to pick up those articles shall be contacted for delivery at their expense unless other arrangements were made. Unclaimed materials will be archived for future fund raisers.

D. Financial Reporting and Accountability

- All bank account statements shall be censored to prevent loss of sensitive information. Bank account numbers, registrant names, and credit card information will be redacted (blackened) to prevent disclosure.
- A final financial report of the entire event (including any pre-event funds) should be prepared and presented to the RBS Planning Committee for approval then ultimately turned into the ASC for approval. Reports are subsequently placed into archive. Any audits required must be made prior to archive.
- The final decision for the use of generated funds is the responsibility of the ASC and not the property of any RBS committee.

E. Financial Responsibilities

- Each subcommittee chairperson who handles funds prior to and during the event should train responsible volunteers to follow the procedure for handling cash and credit sales. Volunteers handling any type of money (cash or credit sales) should always operate in teams of 2 people. At least 1 of those volunteers must have 5 or more year’s clean time per policy.
- The RBS Planning Committee has developed a written agreement for the management of funds, which includes the process of repayment of any funds that go missing as part of a trusted servant’s service. This form has been approved by the ASC. All money handlers are required to read, understand, and sign the written agreement for the management of funds. (see Form – Statement of Responsibility Form)

F. Auditing of RBS Funds

- If appropriate procedures are developed and applied, the event of an audit is unlikely. When NA funds are misappropriated or stolen, members must decide if policies were not followed and/or policies should be updated or changed. It is important that all members feel free to speak up when in this situation without fear of retribution or other negative actions. Concerns should be brought to the attention of the Facilitator or Co-Facilitator. A review of all ledgers and financial records should be made to identify if misappropriation has occurred. If necessary, a written report may be provided anonymously to the ASC. A copy of this letter should be supplied to the ASC Facilitator and Co-Facilitator for review. Audits of financial records should be made by the RBS Facilitator, RBS Co-Facilitator, ASC Treasurer, and a non-affiliated member of CBANA.
- If evidence of funds suggests that they have been misappropriated. Actions taken shall be guided by the NA World Service Bulletin #30 "Theft of NA Funds."

G. PayPal and Similar Accounts

- The new RBS Facilitator and Co-Facilitator are required to contact the Web Servant to change all access codes to the RBS PayPal account each year.
- Under no circumstance should access codes be communicated to any other person other than the ASC Treasurer, RBS Facilitator, RBS Co-Facilitator, and Web Servant.
- Any messages received from PayPal suggesting unauthorized access to the account should be forwarded to the RBS Facilitator immediately.

V. Topics, Themes, and Speakers for the RBS Event

Themes shall be made to maintain the simple purpose of RBS. Themes should be selected which promote an addict's life in recovery while not emphasizing the horrors of addiction. Proposed themes should be gathered for review and voted on by the RBS Planning Committee. A single clarifying theme should be approved.

Themes should be selected from experiences from recovery which includes, but not limited to, Narcotics Anonymous approved literature, spiritual principles, or freedoms, experiences, and gratitude from active addiction. The theme provides the texture for the event. The selection should be made promptly at the start of planning the event. Information, artwork, and ideas relevant to the theme will be used by the subcommittees as the event progresses.

Speakers selected should support the theme through their experiences in recovery. Speakers should present a clear Narcotics Anonymous message of recovery. Speakers will be provided with registration and merchandise as an expression of gratitude.

It is important that the message carried by speakers at the event is made available to every person seeking recovery. The RBS Executive Planning Body should collect a minimum of three bids for ASL interpretation services.. The interpreter will be available at the event to provide ASL interpretation. These services will become part of the RBS budget.

VI. RBS Kick Off Party

The Thursday prior to RBS will be the annual kickoff party/meeting for the event. It is the responsibility of the Hospitality subcommittee to plan and organize the event in a responsible manner. It is important to reserve a gathering place of sufficient size to accommodate this activity. Basic refreshments may be provided as approved by the ASC.
